Master of Arts (M. A.)

MAJOR: ENGLISH LITERATURE

Programme Specific Outcomes

Based on the syllabus design, and by analogy with similar MA-English programmes, students completing MA (English) under RTMNU are expected to:

1. Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of major periods, genres, and movements in English literature (from Chaucer / Renaissance to modern / contemporary, including Indian and world literature).
2. Critically read and analyze literary texts - poetry, drama, novel, prose, translation - with understanding of historical, cultural, theoretical contexts.
3. Apply literary theories, criticism methods, and critical frameworks to interpret texts and articulate well-reasoned analyses.
4. Produce scholarly writing - research essays, critical analyses, possibly dissertation (in final semesters) - showing command over academic conventions, style, and argumentation.
5. Understand and engage with diverse literatures and cultures (Indian, diasporic, translated, global) - enhancing cross-cultural awareness and sensitivity.
6. Build communication and research skills useful for academic careers, publishing, media, writing, teaching, editing, or further higher studies (like PhD).
7. Develop a social/cultural awareness through literature - ability to reflect on social, historical, political issues via literary study; empathy, critical thinking, ethical sensibility, and broader worldview.
